FOREWORD

1809852

In compiling this family record of our grandfather Jacob H. Goering we naturally consulted other records for information, such as old Church books, Goering genealogy, J. J. Krehbiel family trees and other sources, for which we express our sincere thanks.

The forefathers of our grandparents were a part of the group of Anabaptist, who at one time had their stronghold in Switzerland, to them religious was the most valuable possession, and especially their doctrine of nonresistance constituted one of the strongest tenets of their faith, and for which they had to suffer much persecution.

In about 1791 they left France for Austria, which at that time was under Russian domain. This move was probably partly determined by the invitation of Catherine II of Russia to Mennonite farmers in an effort to colonize and settle portions of Poland and the Volga Province. Most of all it held the promise which these people were seeking, the absolute immunity from military service guaranteed them for a period of one hundred years.

The conditions in Russia gradually changed and various promises previously made, were withdrawn by 1870. The threat of repudiation of the right of freedom of conscience in the matter of military service was so imminent that plans were again made for migration.

The exodus that took a large number of our Mennonites out of Russia took place in the year 1874 and included such names as Stucky, Schrag, Kaufman, Zerger, Ries and many others, among them being Rev. Johan Gehring and all of his children and their families including his son Jacob H., his wife and five children, whose lineage is traced in this book. Looking back seventy-five years, during which time we have been privileged to enjoy the blessing of complete freedom of conscience, we must feel a great and compelling debt of gratitude to our fathers for the faith and courage in leaving their home for a new land. Above all must we be grateful to our Heavenly Father for his loving care and protection in bringing us thus far. May we ever prove ourselves worthy of his bounties.
